

Press release

Paris, 28 April 2020

The French group Anjac Health & Beauty is acquiring Roval Cosmétiques and is increasing its industrial reach, becoming a strong player in France's health and beauty sector

The industrial group ANJAC Health & Beauty specialises in the formulation, manufacturing and filling of cosmetics, food supplements, medical devices and drugs, and is continuing its development by completing the purchase of the Normandy company Roval Cosmétiques. This announcement once again highlights the group's entrepreneurial ambition. Experts in the development of cosmetics and hygiene products, Roval Cosmétiques will add to ANJAC Health & Beauty Group's know-how.

The French group ANJAC Health & Beauty is enhancing its offer and its Made in France industrial expertise

The ANJAC Health & Beauty group has been racking up acquisitions over the past few years and is developing a unique offer for its clients, from the raw materials to the finished product. In France, with Innovi, Pascual Cosmétiques and Aircos, and internationally with Feltor Laboratories in Spain, and more recently Cosmetix West ($40 million TO in 2018) in California. This latest acquisition in 2019 has enabled the group to break into the US market, and strengthen its clean beauty, J-beauty and men's personal care offer. With each new deal, ANJAC Health & Beauty Group has been bolstered by complementary expertise and has incorporated new teams, enabling the group to develop its offer and technology. Sustaining this momentum, the group is today announcing the purchase of the French company Roval Cosmétiques. ANJAC Health & Beauty Group offers the market an agile industrial model, placing safety, sustainability, and visionary and pragmatic innovation at the heart of its business. The family-owned French group is establishing itself as a key player in the French health and beauty industry with this deal, with turnover in excess of €400 million and over 2,000 collaborators.

"Each new acquisition is an opportunity for us to expand our industrial expertise and our unique innovation capacity", said Aurélien Chaufour, the ANJAC Health & Beauty Group CEO. "This deal is a major step in our development process. It fits perfectly with our strategy of high industrial standards and continuous investment, with the aim of always better serving our clients and our high added-value markets," he explained.

Roval Cosmétiques, a French family-owned company renowned for its robust quality and industrial performance

Roval Cosmétiques, bolstered by 40 years of expertise, and a leading French company for cosmetics formulation, manufacturing and filling, is therefore truly adding to ANJAC Health & Beauty Group's offer. Yannick Brunet, its former director, and his staff have developed and sustained over time their unique know-how in the hygiene, haircare and perfume markets. "My absolute priority is that the adventure can continue for Roval Cosmétiques. In this group, Roval will be able to make a contribution, bolster its own plus points, and share its skills," said Yannick Brunet, the former director of Roval Cosmétiques.

Based in the Orne area, to the south of Caen, Roval Cosmétiques boasts Ecocert certification, awarded to companies that manufacture certified organic products. The company also has a foothold abroad, as it has a production facility located close to Barcelona in Spain.

This deal adds to the know-how and increases the capacity of ANJAC Health & Beauty Group. The two companies share values, a unique spirit of entrepreneurship and innovation, and also complement each other in terms of their Made in France offer and expertise. The acquisition marks a new key phase for the ANJAC Health & Beauty Group.
